

Case Study

La Trobe University: Bendigo

The new tech school building on La Trobe's Bendigo campus was nearing completion and required a range of furniture options for classrooms, laboratories and staff office and breakout areas.

The client had a move-in deadline which coincided with the University's orientation week, and therefore required suppliers that were able to source products quickly and meet tight installation timeframes.

We proposed furniture items from our wide range of local manufacturing options. This not only guaranteed a high quality of finished product, but also meant we had a lot more control over the delivery timing and were able to make adjustments 'on the fly' to satisfy the client's changing requirements.

In order to streamline the procurement process for the client, we also sourced and supplied white goods (kitchen appliances) for the project. This meant the client had one source of contact for the entire fitout, and ensured that everything was delivered together.

“Being agile enough to respond to requests & changes at short notice is crucial.”

